Paul & Constance Wesp

Married Dec. 20, 1913 in Vancouver, WA

Paul Meyer

Helen ©1915

POST CARD

NAME AND ADDRESS HERE

CORRESPONDENCE HERE

POST CARD

PLACE STAMP HERE

CORRESPONDENCE

ADDRESS

To Uncle Lis and Aunt Mary

from

Helen and Jane.

Daughters of Paul West
© 1918

Paul Hess Place on Nehalem River near Seaside, Ore.

about 1920

PAUL IN DOORWAY
BLUE MOUNTAINS
LAND GRANT
1912?

PAUL & HELEN 1915

I THINK THIS ELK WAS SHOT FOR RAIDING THE TURNIPS

PAUL

PAUL ECOLA
PARK
WEST REUNION

PAUL WEST IN TRAPPER OUTFIT FOR THE OREGON CENTENNIAL PARADE

1956?

HELEN CONSTANCE JANE

~1918

HELEN.
PAUL
JANE CONSTANCE

~1918

POISON IS TA

MRS. WEST OF SEASIDE IS NEAR DEATH FROM ERROR

Oxalic acid, a terribly corrosive, crystaline poison, mistaken for Epsom salts, brought Mrs. Paul West of Seaside close to death last night.

She is in St. Mary's hospital today, watched over closely by a special nurse and Dr. Eldred Waffle, who gives her a fighting chance for her life.

Mrs. West is the wife of a dairyman and lives at a ranch about two miles south of Seaside, just beyond the Red bridge over the Necanicum river. A quantity of oxalic acid crystals, used about the ranch in treating the cattle, was placed among the family remedies. The acid crystals closely resemble those of Epsom salts and Mrs. West used them by mistake.

She was rushed immediately to Seaside, where Dr. Ray Logan administered first aid and antidotes The attending physician here believes that this prompt treatment saved the woman's life.

When everything was done for her that was possible in Seaside the stricken woman was brought to the hospital here.

She showed some signs of rallying this morning and the physicians are encouraged over her condition.

Taken in concentrated form, oxalic acid produces violent convulsions and is highly corrosive. In more diluted form the poison induces collapse, stupor, languor and usually painless death without struggling.

MILNE M'BRIDE CASE

CHAMBERLAIN WONT DISCUSS APPOINTMENT

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—No announcement has been made by George E. Chamberlain, former Oregon senator, and Paul Howland Cleveland attorney, relative to defense before the senate committee of Attorney General Daugherty by whom they have been retained.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Senator Heflin, democrat of Alabama, told the senate today he could submit a letter by Attorney General Daugherty instructing a district attorney in the west not to prosecute a certain republican national committeeman. He said the letter contained the sentence, "he is our man."

Daugherty "apparently has intimidated the man in the White House," Senator Wheeler, of Montana, declared on the senate floor today. "We all know the president has not the stamina to ask him to leave." He added he understood the president would be pleased if Daugherty resigned.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—A resolution for investigation of the administration of Attorney General Daugherty was taken up today by the senate. Its adoption is expected before tonight and the inquiry will begin next week.

(By United Press)

FULTON, Kentucky, Feb. 29.—Enroute with Daugherty to Florida. Confidence in his complete exoneration of charges of unethical conduct in connection with the Teapot scandal were expressed by Attorney General Daugherty, going to Florida where his wife is ill. He said he was not opposed to the Wheeler resolution.

DECISION TO MAKE ROAD IMPROVEMENT CAUSES REJOICING

REMOVAL SHACKS I BE FOU BY OW

A number of the own temporary "shacks", those massed along Exc are understood to be gether and engaging att effort to keep the inflam tures in the fire limits.

The original permits tion of these structures they must be removed 1924. At its last regu the commission provided months extension to this viding the property ow for the extended permit l 3, and file a bond of fiv originally furnished, for of guaranteeing that the move the temporary buil September 1.

A considerable number owners have applied for ed permit and have file sary bond. Others, how disposition to fight the m is believed that they wil apply for the extended p the attendant heavy bo defy the city to remov tures.

It is inferred that the fighting the move at thi avoid the posting of the which would be forfeit court action fails to shacks to remain.

The city officials, ho no disposition to bow to of these property owner cate that they will force taking immediate steps feiture of the first bonds the removal of the buil

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER

Astoria Budget

"WESTWARD THE COURSE OF EMPIRE TAKES ITS WAY"

THIRTY SECOND YEAR

ASTORIA EVENING BUDGET, ASTORIA, OREGON, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1924.

HOUSE REJECTS GARNER MEAS

POISON IS TAKEN BY MISTAKE

MRS. WEST OF SEASIDE IS NEAR DEATH FROM ERROR

Oxalic acid, a terribly corrosive, crystaline poison, mistaken for Epsom salts brought Mrs. Paul West of Seaside close to death last night.

She is in St. Mary's hospital today, watched over closely by a special nurse and Dr. Eldred Waffle, who gives her a fighting chance for her life.

Mrs. West is the wife of a dairyman and lives at a ranch about two miles south of Seaside, just beyond the Red bridge over the Necanicum river. A quantity of oxalic acid crystals, used about the ranch in treating the cattle, was placed among the family remedies. The acid crystals closely resemble those of Epsom salts and Mrs. West used them by mistake.

She was rushed immediately to Seaside, where Dr. Ray Logan administered first aid and antidotes The attending physician here believes that his prompt treatment saved the woman's life.

When everything was done for her that was possible in Seaside the stricken woman was brought to the hospital here.

She showed some signs of rallying this morning and the physicians are encouraged over her condition.

Taken in concentrated form, oxalic acid produces violent convulsions and is highly corrosive. In more diluted form the poison induces collapse, stupor, languor and usually painless death without struggling.

CHAMBERLAIN WONT DISCUSS APPOINTMENT

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—No announcement has been made by George E. Chamberlain, former Oregon senator, and Paul Howland Cleveland attorney, relative to defense before the senate committee of Attorney General Daugherty by whom they have been retained.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Senator Heflin, democrat of Alabama, told the senate today he could submit a letter by Attorney General Daugherty instructing a district attorney in the west not to prosecute a certain republican national committeeman. He said the letter contained the sentence, "he is our man."

Daugherty "apparently has intimidated the man in the White House," Senator Wheeler, of Montana, declared on the senate floor today. "We all know the president has not the stamina to ask him to leave." He added he understood the President would be pleased if Daugherty resigned.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—A resolution for investigation of the administration of Attorney General Daugherty was taken up today by the senate. Its adoption is expected before tonight and the inquiry will begin next week.

(By United Press)

FULTON, Kentucky, Feb. 29.—Enroute with Daugherty to Florida Confidence in his complete exoneration of charges of unethical conduct in connection with the Teapot scandal were expressed by Attorney General Daugherty, going to Florida where his wife is ill. He said he was not opposed to the Wheeler resolution.

DECISION TO MAKE ROAD IMPROVEMENT

REMOVAL OF SHACKS MAY BE FOUGHT BY OWNERS

A number of the owners of the temporary "shacks", principally those massed along Exchange street, are understood to be grouping together and engaging attorneys in an effort to keep the inflammable structures in the fire limits.

The original permits for the erection of these structures provided that they must be removed by March 1, 1924. At its last regular meeting the commission provided for a six months extension to this period, providing the property owners applied for the extended permit before March 3, and file a bond of five times that originally furnished, for the purpose of guaranteeing that they would remove the temporary buildings before September 1.

A considerable number of property owners have applied for this extended permit and have filed the necessary bond. Others, however, show a disposition to fight the matter and it is believed that they will refuse to apply for the extended permits, with the attendant heavy bond, and will defy the city to remove the structures.

It is inferred that the reason for fighting the move at this time is to avoid the posting of the heavy bond which would be forfeited in case court action fails to permit the shacks to remain.

The city officials, however, show no disposition to bow to the demands

FORMER HEAD OF VETERANS BUREAU IS INDICTED FOR BRIBERY BY GRAND JURY

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 29.—An indictment charging bribery was returned here today by the special federal grand jury against Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former head of the veterans bureau, and J. W. Thompson, of Thompson and Black construction company of Chicago and St. Louis. The action followed several weeks investigation of the veterans bureau graft charges.

DISAPPEARANCE OF YOUNG MEXICAN IS CAUSE OF CONCERN

The Astoria police are combing the demi-monde district and the waterfront today for trace of Enos Barba a young Mexican, who utterly disappeared five days ago, acording to reports made by his friends.

Barba was last seen about 3:30 in the afternoon of February 24, when he left the Mike Cosmos soft drink resort on Astor street for the Western hotel, only a few blocks away. As near as can be determined, the man never reached his destination.

Tony Abyta, with whom he roomed at 46 Hamburg avenue, has been able to find no clue to the mystery. He does not believe that Barba left the city of his own accord, as all of his personal effects remain in his room. The lost Mexican is reported by his friends to be a quiet man, not addicted to drink, and to have had about $30 on his person when he was last seen.

Barba was a young man about five feet five inches tall, weighing perhaps 130 pounds and dark complexioned. He wa swearing a can, a light shirt and a black overcoat when he left the Cosmos resort last Sunday afternoon.

DEATH OF INFANT IS

COMMITTEE DECIDES ON BIG CELEBRATION ON FOURTH OF JULY

A big three-day celebration on July 3, 4 and 5, which will not only fittingly commemorate the anniversary of the country's independence but which will be a jubilee of rejoicing over the rebuilding of the burned city was decided upon today at a meeting of the executive committee of the general group selected to consider some form of celebration or festival this year.

The committee met at noon today at the Astoria Hotel and reached its decision after a discussion had developed that the general sentiment favored a July celebration instead of a regatta or fall festival this year. The committee will report its conclusions to a meeting of the general committee Monday noon for approval or disapproval.

Roger D. Pinnco was elected as chairman of the executive committee and Sherman W. Lovell vice-chairman.

While no attempt was made to outline a program for the celebration, the sentiment seemed to be for a varied entertainment which will appeal to tourists, home-folk and loggers and which will attract a big crowd here to note the progress which has been made with the reconstruction work.

PALMER ON STAND TELLS CONNECTION WITH M'LEAN

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The senate today unanimously adopted the McKellar resolution requesting that President Coolidge have Mellon furnish the senate oil committee with the income tax returns of Sinclair, Doheny, Fall and all the Doheny and Sinclair companies. When the Wheeler resolution calling for the investigation of the administration of the department of justice came Wheeler modified it provide the senate should elect an investigating committee. Lodge moved to amend it leaving the appointment to the chair. The point was debated.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. — A. Mitchell Palmer testified before the oil committee today (illegible) circumstances of his retention as attorney for Edward B. McLean in the oil inquiry. He denied J. W. Zevely, counsel for Harry F. Sinclair, was a law partner, as suggested in the McLean telegrams. He added, however, that Zevely "is an old friend of mine", and had outlined to him a couple of months ago salient facts in his

ON AFI RE

WASH house la worth co reduction "republic knock the taxes wa

WASH republica agreed to can comp erue bill, forces le rejection rates on

WASH house to lon plan proposal Oregon, Mellon p linguishe nal repub

WASH meeting tatives a to suppo mine tax of Wisco was beca several o on the r compro cent - o oren, in Let Mr. present percent

Courtesy of Paul See

Can anyone tell us what this model was built for? The elderly man at far left is Josiah West, a pioneer on Clatsop Plains and grandfather of Paul See. At left of the smokestack is Josiah's son, Paul West.

- from Cumtux, Clatsop County Historical Society Quarterly Magazine: Vol. 23 No. 4, Fall 2003